A Word From the Management

In case you've just joined our growing list of listeners, be aware that what you're hearing now is not what you will always hear. Like fall weather on the Palouse, the sound of KUOI is continually changing from hour to hour. That's because diversity reigns at KUOI. We take up the slack where other stations on the Palouse have left off, offering a dozen or more styles of programming that just can't be had anywhere else on the dial. We offer all kinds of rock, jazz, reggae, new age, acoustic, folk, bluegrass, electronic, ethnic, country rock, rockabilly, fusion, funk, soul, rap, heavy metal, hard-core punk, oldies, modern classical and even some antiquated music from the 30's and 40's and even some avant-garde.

As you can see, KUOI is special in that it, through music, fosters an open-mindedness of those who are different from ourselves. During a listening day the many textures and contours of the world of music unfold before your ears. Having an all-volunteer staff and a free format insures that your hearing something because somebody's heart is in it, not because somebody's being paid to push the songs the industry wants to be hits.

Besides music, KUOI acts as a forum for discussion, commentary, and other forms of expression. We offer the Palouse's only call-in talk show, Calling on Moscow. We bring you live coverage of important press conferences, symposiums, and sporting events. We bring you Radio Billboard where you can buy, sell, swap or announce your community events.

So open to the center of the guide, choose a show from the schedule that suits your style for tonight or tomorrow, and get to know it. Pick one that doesn't seem to fit your style and try it anyway. If you keep doing this, I'll guarantee that you'll find at least a few shows that will really grab you and have you coming back for more. They may not be the ones you would first expect, either.

KUOI has a way of growing on people. I hope it grows on you as it has on me.
